McKinleyisms.

The following are a few of the many sound and sensible sayings uttered by Major McKinley in the Ohio campaign:

Free trade creates two things—the irresponsible wealth which stagnates, and the starvation wages of the labor market.

The greatest debt this country owes is to the veterans of the late war, and I am in favor of an honest dollar to pay it with.

A Democratic revenue tariff never established a factory in the United States; it never lighted a furnace in this country, and it does not and never has encouraged American industries.

If the United States should legislate in favor of free coinage of silver, it would stand isolated from the great commercial nations of the world. England, France, and Germany want nothing better than to have this country chance free silver. Then they would make it the dumping ground for all the silver of the world, while they would still maintain a gold standard. Instead of increasing the currency it would decrease it, by driving out the $500,000,000 gold we now have, and also send to the treasury for redemption the $340,000,000 in greenbacks, now as good as gold, leaving us with silver alone for our currency, confessedly the worst money in the world.

Thanksgiving Notes.

Gov. Winans recommends the observance of Nov. 26 for general thanksgiving, in a short though comprehensive proclamation.

It is generally conceded that the great European demand for our breadstuffs and provisions will result in the return to this country of much of the American gold that has crossed the ocean; and, if the present tariff laws are maintained, the balance of trade cannot fail to be in our favor for some time to come. Let us return thanks for this.

It is an open question whether little John Jacob Astor, Jr., will be any happier for the $150,000,000 he will inherit, as the vast weight of responsibility attending such a fortune is enough in itself to make its possessor prematurely old, while the many snares and pitfalls in the pathway of the wealthy young man, render it exceedingly hard for him to lead an upright, happy life. Realizing this, many a mother has true cause for thankfulness that her boy stands a good chance of becoming a manly man through the necessity of making his own way in the world.

President Harrison's Thanksgiving proclamation is a perfect gem of eloquence—sparkling, flawless and symmetrical. The Inter Ocean calls attention to its beauty, and truthfully says the American people should be thankful that they possess a chief executive whose utterances are the admiration of the world. Surely, it is no small matter for the representative of a nation to be able always to say the right thing in the right place, and whatever tends to exalt the United States in the eyes of other nations is due cause for rejoicing to every patriotic American.

A good old colored woman used to exhort her pickaninnies to thankfulness by saying, "Tink ub yo' marcies, chillun; tink ub yo' marcies." This is good advice for us all on this eve of Thanksgiving, so let us cast our eyes over the world at large and realize, by contrast, our own immunity from disaster and suffering. The British Isles have been swept by furious gales, with excessive loss of life and property. Spain has been inundated by destructive floods, leaving many people destitute and homeless. In India a great cyclone has destroyed hundreds of lives and millions of dollars, while in Russia whole provinces are crying for food, making the sombre war-cloud that overshadows that country all the more ominous. But we, living in the midst of peace and prosperity, have suffered neither flood nor famine, and in this section, especially, are particularly favored, as we have escaped even the fire-flood that has ravaged some parts of our own land. And now, with overflowing reservoirs and streams, full cellars and barns, and abundant prophecy of a bountiful year to come, let us have full hearts as well, that shall overflow with kindness and generosity toward all.

World's W. C. T. U.

This memorable convention closed with a grand banquet at which covers were laid for 3,000 guests. Mrs. Mary A. Livermore acted as toast-mistress, and the toasts were drunk with Apollinaris water. Perhaps never before were so many brilliant and gifted women gathered together under one roof, and this bringing together of philanthropic workers from all parts of the world, must have a tendency to liberalize their views, and prove a means of education to every one within the wide radius of their influence.

The following resolution adopted at the last day's meeting, shows how broad a field the work of this organization is made to cover:

That this convention, representing a paid-up membership of 150,000 women through its general officers memorializes congress to ratify the treaty submitted by the Brussels conference of nations proposing the exclusion of intoxicating liquors and the abolition of the slave trade from large portions of Africa. To pass the bill introduced at the request of the W. C. T. U. for a commission composed of both men and women to investigate the social vice. To pass the bill reported favorably last year, providing for a commission of inquiry on the alcoholic liquor traffic; also that women be appointed upon such committee. To provide for separate buildings for men and women prisoners in the Indian Territory. To settle all difficulties within our borders, or with other nations, by arbitration. That we also memorialize the World's Fair Commissioners to close the gates on Sunday and to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors upon the grounds.

Several tin-plate factories have shut down in South Wales within the last fortnight, and the great importing firm of French & Co. recently gave notice of a remarkable fall in the price of foreign tin-plate, so that it will be in order for our free trade contemporaries to find some explanation for this new development, though the U. S. Tin-plate Co. at Demmeler, Penn., and other kindred plants in this country, will doubtless hold their own views upon the matter. It must not be forgotten that little more than eight years ago the works at Demmeler were shut down by the unrestricted competition of cheap labor in Great Britain, and they never could have resumed labor, except for the McKinley tariff; but already they have so far recovered their lost ground as to have made 300 tons of bright tin since the imposition of a protective duty, besides a large quantity of black-plate, and will be in shape after Jan. 1, 1892, to put from 300 to 400 tons of bright tin-plate on the market every week. Truly, protection does protect.

The immediate effect of war upon the credit of any country, and the exceeding sensitiveness of the money market, was illustrated by the panic in the Vienna Bourse that ensued this month over the German emperor's reported statement that the European situation was a critical one. This was interpreted by stockholders as a prediction of war, and immediately there was such a decline in prices as has not been known for many years, and hundreds of persons hastened frantically to the Bourse, ready to sell valuable securities at any cost. A few of the cooler heads made large purchases and saved the market, and it was soon ascertained that the emperor had said nothing more definite than that "the famine which now prevails in Russia, has greatly increased the chances of war." It is estimated that fully 10,000,000 florins were thus thrown away, and the nervous sellers are very sore over it and inconsistently blame the emperor as the cause of their loss.

New York, Washington, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Omaha, San Francisco, and Detroit all want the national convention and are making a lively scramble for the plum. The hustling western cities are exhibiting their usual disregard of cost to be insured, and San Francisco has raised a special fund of $50,000 to defray the expenses of its delegates, while the Omaha delegation has instructions to guarantee to the national committee, the prompt payment of all legitimate expenses of the National Republican Convention. Minnie and Paul have buried the hatchet for a time, and joined hands in the contest, nearly 200 delegates having been sent to Washington to convince the committee that Minneapolis is the only proper place for holding the great convention. The outcome will be watched with considerable interest.

All reports from Brazil are unreliable, yet there seems abundant evidence that the condition of the country is bordering upon anarchy, and there is war to the knife between the junta and Fonseca. Should the former prove no more successful than did Don Dickinson and his Detroit junta, Dictator Fonseca will continue to have it all his own way.

Considerable excitement has been created in Detroit by the discovery that indictments brought against liquor sellers had been tampered with after being filed with the Recorder, and the lively manner in which those cases are now being investigated has convinced the lax prosecutor that the court means business, at last.

The Detroit delegation now in Washington for the purpose of securing the national convention, reflects credit upon all Michigan by the substitution at their headquarters of ice-water in place of the lavish side-boards supported by the other delegations.

The big boycott organized against the "heathen Chinese" in Montana will make it hard lines for the 1000 proscribed wretches in Butte City.

If the Farmers' Alliance succeed in forming the Independents, F. M. B. A. and what-not into a third party, where will the prohibitionists come in?

Recent advices from Chili are meagre, and there is no material change in the situation.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS.

Over 12 years I was afflicted with a very serious female difficulty, and for the last sixteen months was under treatment of three of the very best physicians that money could employ. Under their skillful treatment I gradually grew worse, until they decided they could render me no permanent help. One of my friends persuaded me to try a bottle of Dullman's Great German Uterine Tonic, and after taking three bottles, can say I am in better health than I have been for 30 years and am now 60 years old, but feel as young as at thirty—B. Whereas, on the 10th day of November, A. D. 1891, an application in writing was made to this court by the Drain Commissioner of said county, for the appointment of three special commissioners to determine the necessity for a drain through certain lands in said county, and described in said application, and for the taking of private property for the use and benefit of the public for the purpose thereof, and the just compensation to be made therefor.
